GUEST SPEAKER, Old Scotch Collegian ('63) Malcolm "Mal" Brown is a former Australian rules footballer in the Victorian Football League and West Australian Football League. He is described as "one of the most colourful and controversial characters" of the game. He was a highly controversial character not only for his many visits to the tribunal during his playing career but also for a number of incidents when coaching as well.

Brown played in the WAFL for East Perth, Claremont and South Fremantle. His honours as a player include the Sandover Medal in 1969 and three best and fairest at East Perth (1969, 1970, 1972).

He was made captain/coach of East Perth in 1970 and in this capacity he led them to their 1972 premiership. Brown moved to play in the VFL with the Richmond Football Club for the 1974 season. This earned him recognition in Victoria, where he was considered a highly controversial character. He played 14 games and booted 25 goals as a ruck-rover for the Tigers.

He returned to Western Australia in 1975 and was appointed the player-coach for Claremont. He moved to play and coach at South Fremantle, the club he supported as a child, and after retiring as a player during 1977, he coached South Fremantle to a premiership in 1980. In 1985, after eight years in charge at South Fremantle, he moved to coach Perth. He stayed there for 3 years before retiring to join the WAFL Commission. He returned to coach South Fremantle for one more year in 1992 before retiring from coaching for the last time.

In 1994 he co-authored a book titled Mal Brown & Mongrels I've Met! with Brian Hansen. He was a regular panelist on The Footy Show and in 2004 Brown was inducted into the West Australian Football Hall of Fame.
